

Article 3

1. The present Convention shall apply to treaties between States.
This paragraph is short but still occupies more than a single line so that line-joining behaviour can be checked.
2. For the purposes of the present Convention, a treaty means an international agreement concluded between States in written form and governed by international law, whether embodied in a single instrument or in two or more related instruments.
3. The provisions of this Article do not apply to agreements concluded between a State and an international organisation.
 - (a) unless the parties have so agreed in writing; and
 - (b) unless the agreement is deposited with the depositary.
